BEST OF GFREIDI MOMENTS

It felt like our Munich 2022 mascot Gfreidi was everywhere at the same time. Whether at the competition venues in the city centre or in Olympiapark – wherever the lively squirrel appeared, fun was guaranteed. He has inspired people, tried out sports and sometimes even caused a stir with his cheeky squirrel manner – with a wink of course. Here are a few impressions.

IT WAS MUDDY, WET AND SANDY...

Admittedly, water, sand and chalk are not only part of many sports, they are the central element. But when rain and heat are added to the mix, it can quickly become slippery, muddy and sweaty, as the mountain bikers had to experience, for example. But that's where the most spectacular pictures are shot.

The European Championships Munich 2022 have come to an end and we want to say THANK YOU – first and foremost to the best audience in the world: The competition venues were always very well attended to completely sold out.

You were not only physically present, but you created an amazing atmosphere and drove the athletes to top performances. From Landsberg to the trade fair, from Oberschleißheim to Odeonsplatz – you were everywhere.

Even heat and rain couldn't stop you. At the latest at the start of the competition, you could hear your cheers and see your national flag. THANK YOU FOR BEING THERE!

FAIR PLAY MOMENTS AT MUNICH 2022

Despite all the sporting success and ambition, fair play was also lived with every fibre at the European Championships Munich 2022. You surely still have the image in your mind when Nahuel Carabaña from Andorra helped the fallen Dane Vang Christensen in the 3,000-metre steeplechase. After Arthur Abele's last decathlon performance, all the athletes formed a trellis for the German and celebrated him exuberantly. In table tennis, Kristian Karlsson had to retire in the semi-final due to injury, whereupon his opponent Darko Jorgić from Slovenia consoled him extensively. In the women's final, the same fate befell Germany's Nina Mittelham. She also had to retire due to injury and was comforted by Sofia Polcanova from Austria.

FINAL MEDAL TABLE: NATIONS TROPHY GOES TO HOST GERMANY

The final results are in and Germany has won the overall standings, earning themselves the Nations Trophy. It's was incredible close until the very end.
